

Getting to know Planned Parenthood . . .

Planned Parenthood and Health Care

Planned Parenthood presents itself as an indispensable partner in the American health care system. However, their own numbers show they provide only a narrow range of services to less than 1% of the U.S. population each year.

Despite Planned Parenthood's name, prenatal care amounts to less than 0.1% of their total annual services. They provide 1% of clinical breast exams and less than 2% of pap tests each year, and zero mammograms. They make only 1% of annual STD diagnoses. Moreover, every year Planned Parenthood has tended to provide fewer health services and see fewer clients.

Planned Parenthood does not provide such basic healthcare as treatment for diabetes, back pain, colds and flus, bodily injury, or mental health issues. They offer little to no pediatric care, and even instruct parents not to bring children with them to their centers.

The vast majority of women will never visit a Planned Parenthood facility in their lives.

Planned Parenthood and the Law

Planned Parenthood claims to be a responsible organization, devoted to the common good. But the record says something different.

Planned Parenthood has been caught submitting fraudulent Medicaid claims, deceiving government officials, defying state and federal law, lying about what services they provide, and harvesting and selling fetal tissue.

They've even gone so far as to shield child predators, performing abortions on victims of sexual abuse while failing to alert authorities, as required by law.

Despite all this, Planned Parenthood receives over half a billion dollars from taxpayers every year.

Planned Parenthood and Abortion

Most Americans know that Planned Parenthood offers abortions, but few realize they are the nation's single largest abortion provider.

Planned Parenthood performs over 390,000 abortions every year. That's 42% of the national total. And their abortion numbers keep going up—in fact, they've increased by more than 70% over the last 20 years.

Planned Parenthood aggressively markets abortion to their clients, setting quotas for each facility and rewarding staff who meet them. Abortion accounts for approximately 60% of their clinic income, over $230 million annually. One out of five clients visiting Planned Parenthood each year will get an abortion there.

Planned Parenthood vigorously opposes commonsense measures favored by the vast majority of Americans—like laws requiring parents to be informed if their minor daughter seeks an abortion, limits on taxpayer funding of abortion, and even restrictions on late term abortion.

PLANNED PARENTHOOD Market Share

Mammograms: 0%

Pap Tests: 1%

Clinical Breast Exams: 1%

STD Diagnoses: 1%

Abortion: 42%

That's Planned Parenthood.

They're the nation's largest abortion provider. Their role in health care is minimal. They break the law.
